The and phosphate in this preparation supplies the vital phosphates essential to the system, and assists digestion. No other hading powder does this. Dr. J. Stevens, of Bangor, 1998;

"I have examined Horsford't Bread Preparation, as, also, his Theory of Bread Making," and and consider I: based on truly scientific principles as regards the health, digettibility and assimilation of food math from which flour, as now used. As for its paintability. I haraly think it can be exceeded by anything in the bread-making line, as I can attest by experience of its use in my own family. Dr. I. Wiripbotte, of Bangor, Mys.

I have used Horsford's Bread Preparation for more than twenty years, and can eartily recommend it to the public as being a purplarticle, and very healthy to use State Normal School, Dr. C. P Thomas, of Brower, Chalman of the Board of Health, says

"I have used Horsford's Bread Preparation in any family for ten years, with the best of satisfaction, and certainly rousidbr it the most scientific and healthy article better the public at the present time. It restores to the brain and perves just what is needed, namely, the phosphites, without any unhealthy effects "

Dr. J. Getchell, of Brewer, says: of have used Horsford's Bread Preparation for cooking purposes, in my family for the last ten years, and I unhestiatingly state that it has groved far superior to any other bread preparation which I have used."

Dr. C. F. Atwood, of Winterport, My "Having used very many preparations to raise bread, or to render it light, porous and digestible. I have discarded them all, and nowland Horstord's, believing it to be pure, and to not only accomplish the lightening of the bread, but to do what is not even cialized for any other-durable elements of autrition not possessed by the flour. Further than this, its certainty and good results please the housewife."

Dr. A. R. Follows, of Winterport, says "I find upon examining into the merits of Hor-tord's Bread Preparation ps a useful und indispensable article in the cullbary art, that it furnishes, after its chemical use i recomplished, one of the most important of nutritique clemental the phosphates, re that which has been displaced in the grinding process of flour,
